

Notice to listener: The audio that you are about to listen to from the Ra contact is not precisely as it appears in the published versions of the books. Following are six reasons for differences between the audio version and the published version of The Law of One, Books I – V:

1. Because of its personal, transient, or sensational nature, some material was omitted from Books I - IV. Most of this material was published in Book V; a small amount was not published until the version created by the relistening project*. So you may hear material in the audio which was not published in the original five books.
2. In some cases, Don Elkins' questions were edited for the books in order to improve readability. So you may hear Don asking a question in rougher form than appears in the published version.
3. In several cases, material from one session was placed into another for coherence. For example, Session #26 as it appears in the Book contains a fragment from Session #31.
4. Each Ra session was recorded onto three cassettes, all of which were flipped from side A to side B at different times. During the course of the Ra contact from 1981 – 84, two of the three cassettes were reused for later recording. This means that the remaining, non-reused cassette for each session (from which these digital files were made) have small sections of missing material where the tape was flipped from side A to side B.

And in one case, side B of the remaining cassette was recorded over.

5. In a few instances, names have been removed from the audio to protect privacy.
6. In some cases, simple errors were made in transcribing or typesetting.

Please keep these six caveats in mind when listening to the audio. If you hear something in the audio which is at variance with the text, before you contact us, please check what you are hearing against the most exact representation of the audio we have at <http://www.lawofone.info/>.

This website contains the “re-listened” version of The Law of One books produced by Tobey Wheelock.

If you hear something different than what is present in the re-listened version, please email us with your correction. Please include the session number and the exact time that the correction begins. For instance: Session #44 at 3 minutes, 29 seconds.

Each audio file is encoded in the mp3 format without any DRM restrictions. It is intended for your own personal study and enjoyment, along with those in your immediate circle with whom you may want to share. We kindly, respectfully ask that you not distribute this audio over the net but instead point interested seekers to this website.

We ask this only because we already give the text version of the material away for free to any interested seeker the world over. It is hoped that, as a byproduct, this Audio section of the online store will help raise revenue for L/L Research so that we may continue serving seekers and offering free material as it is produced. Thank you so much in advance for honoring our concerns regarding file sharing.

Thank you and enjoy!
